Mary McKinney, Board Member

I joined the board for Womanspace East in 2020 because I have always wanted to do something to impact the homelessness situation we are faced with. For our country to have the wealth that it does, and to still have people experiencing homelessness is very disappointing to me. It really upsets me and I appreciate that Womanspace East is here. A large part of my career was helping folks from many different social situations create independence through starting their own business. Once Womanspace East assists clients become independent and stable, small business ownership is an avenue that is open to them in the future.

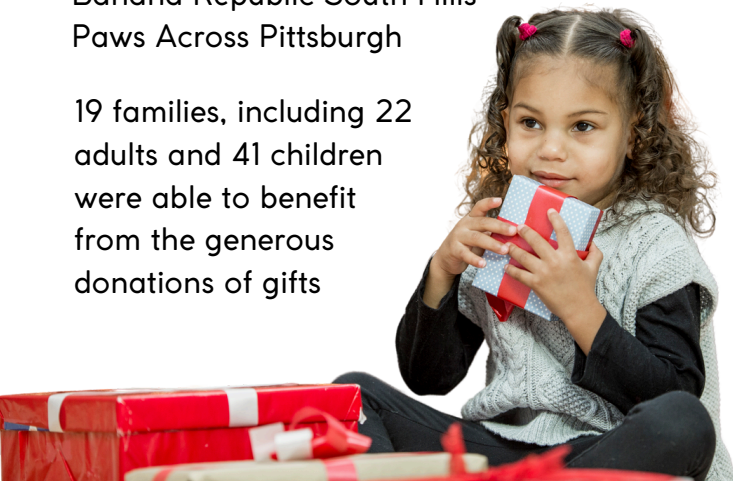

Womanspace East was founded in 1976 and has an incredible track record helping families. Every single person has something to contribute to our society, but they can't do that if they are not warm or fed. Womanspace East helps people get into counseling, makes sure the kids are enrolled in school, and connects parents with job training. They make a big impact.

The good you create

Our on-site case workers are able to connect residents with resources they may not have known about otherwise. Aaron* came to be in shelter with his mother as a high school student and quickly began taking advantage of opportunities available to him through our partnership with the Homeless Children's Education Fund. Their teen outreach program began meeting with Aaron consistently on site in the Womanspace East game room. Eventually, Aaron started attending teen nights at the Carnegie Library. He continued into the HCEF summer placement program with the Carnegie Library DEI department and is currently in their College Club learning about paths to the career of his choice.
